A STUDY OF SARCOID TUMOURS IN CAPE MOUNTAIN ZEBRA (EQUUS ZEBRA ZEBRA)

Condition: New. Publisher/Verlag: VDM Verlag Dr. Müller | A study looking at the prevalence, body distribution and histopathology of sarcoids in endangered Cape Mountain Zebra in South Africa | The equine sarcoid, a locally aggressive, fibroblastic skin tumour, is the most common skinneoplasm reported in horses. The Cape mountain zebra (CMZ) has been described as one of the most vulnerable mammals in South Africa. The possibility exists that the existing populations arose from a very small gene pool and that they are considerably inbred. A reduction...
